With a rich tradition dating back to 1919, Queen's School of Business has long been one of the world's premier business schools, with an international reputation for its innovative approaches to business education.

On October 1, 2015, the School began a new chapter in its impressive history. In recognition of the generous gift of $50 million from Queen's alumnus Stephen Smith, BSc(Eng)'72, the School has a new name – the Stephen J. R. Smith School of Business at Queen's University.

This extraordinary gift, the largest gift ever made to a Canadian business school, will enable the school to continue to transform business education, enhance the student experience, and attract the best and brightest talent from across Canada and around the world.

DEAN'S MESSAGE

Looking back on the school's performance last year, I can tell you we have never been stronger. We are now teaching thousands of future leaders, managers and executives through a diverse portfolio of degree and executive development programs. Recent hiring has boosted the size of our faculty and our research output is growing. We also achieved tremendous financial stability by diversifying our program offering. Last year, for the first time, our revenues exceeded $100M.

Reflecting on this incredible success, alumni may wonder why now is the time to name the school in recognition of a $50M investment. In fact, I believe this is the perfect time. To continue our school's rich tradition of excellence and to maintain and grow our position of strength, in Canada and around the globe, we need a significant investment in our endowment. Business education is growing increasingly competitive, and major changes are underway in the global business school market. We need significant financial resources – which will help us build on the gifts from visionary donors Mel Goodes and Don Sobey – to remain competitive as a business school and to attract the world's best faculty and students.

Per capita, Queen's ranked seventh among Canadian business schools for endowment size. This transformational gift from Stephen Smith moves us to the top. With one of the largest endowments of any business school in Canada, we now have the flexibility to invest in innovation and also have more funds to attract the top talent in the world – both students and faculty – to Queen's, propelling us from among the best schools in Canada to one of the world leaders in business education.

Strategy experts will tell you that the time to make change is from a position of strength. Now is the time for us to make this change.

If you missed our celebration of this tremendous milestone in Queen's history, you can see it at the new Smith School site, smith.queensu.ca.

The Monieson Centre for Business Research in Healthcare

The Monieson Centre for Business Research in Healthcare creates opportunities and provides ongoing support to academics, business leaders and policymakers to develop research-based solutions to real-world problems. The Centre provides partners with access to evidence-based findings and strategies, and collaborative, interdisciplinary research teams with the large data sets necessary for rigorous research.

ssb.ca/monieson

2014/2015 MILESTONES

- The Queen's Health Policy Change Conference Series concluded in May with the Managing a Canadian Healthcare Strategy conference. Led by the Monieson Centre, this three-part annual series was a joint venture between the business school, the Faculty of Health Sciences and School of Policy Studies. Each conference attracted senior industry, government and academic leaders from around the world to discuss Canadian healthcare strategies. The series generated 16 white papers, 25 sponsors, three workshops and a book (Toward a Healthcare Strategy for Canadians, Carson, A.S., Dixon, J. and Nossal, K.R. (eds.)).
- The Monieson Centre formed a collaborative interdisciplinary group of 21 researchers from the business school, Queen's Health Sciences and Computing, to work on five projects in systems leadership and governance in healthcare.
- With funding from Canada Health Infoway, the Centre began a two-year evaluation of a Community Paramedic Remote Patient Monitoring program.
- A grant from the Joseph F. Stauffer Foundation enabled the Centre to host an Economics and Healthcare Speaker Series, featuring presentations by scholars from Wharton, Harvard, University of California-Berkeley, among others.

Centre for Business Venturing

The Centre for Business Venturing supports the creation, leadership and management of new ventures. Its activities range from embedding new-venture thinking into the curriculum — including an elective course that enables students to invest monies from the TriColour Venture Fund — to providing new ventures with access to capital, and conducting applied research in business venturing.

- The 12 student members of the TriColour Venture Fund program evaluated business plans from ten Ontario companies looking for investors. Students conducted due diligence reviews on three of the plans and recommended investing in one to the Fund's Advisory Board. As a result, the TCVF invested $90,000 in Peekapak, a start-up that is creating educational content to radically improve learning outcomes in early childhood.
- The Centre-facilitated survey of Best Small and Medium Sized Employers marked 11 years in helping organizations improve employee morale, retention and productivity. Since the program's inception, surveys from more than 135,000 employees and close to 10,000 leaders have provided insights on key leadership issues facing Canadian organizations. The Top 50 Employers were profiled in Canadian Business magazine, PROFITGuide.com and in La Presse.
- Three Commerce students landed 'Dare to Dream' internships, valued at up to $15,000 for each of their new ventures, funded by benefactors CIBC, Cogeco and BCom'78 classmates Dany Battat and Gia Steffensen.

Centre for Social Impact

The Centre's mission is to educate students and foster outreach and advocacy on issues of social impact. This involves fostering education in the fields of responsible leadership and social impact; supporting research and providing advice in key focus areas; providing support for communities; and being a global advocate on issues of responsible leadership and social impact.

ssb.ca/csi

2014/2015 MILESTONES

- In Oct. 2014, the former QSB Centre for Responsible Leadership changed its name to the Centre for Social Impact to better align and reflect its priorities and focus.
- Hosted the annual Social Impact Summit (formerly the Responsible Leadership Summit) for Commerce, MBA, AMBA and MIB students that featured more than 25 speakers at the two-day event.
- Hosted a two-day Social Innovation "Boot Camp" and Social Venture Pitch Competition for the school's and Queen's students, in partnership with the AMS (Alma Mater Society) and EWB (Engineers Without Borders).
- CSI took the lead role in the campus-wide RECODE initiative. Queen's is one of 18 postsecondary institutions that received funding from the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation, which promotes the development of an on-and-off campus social innovation ecosystem.

Queen's Business Consulting

Queen's Business Consulting (QBC) has operated for 40 years and is Canada's top undergraduate consulting program. This year-round venture is managed by senior Commerce students under the guidance of Rob Woyzbun, the Centre's Director. Students provide a range of cost-effective consulting services to small and medium-sized businesses, not-for-profit organizations and other public enterprises.

ssb.ca/qbc

2014/2015 MILESTONES

- Student consultants completed nine client projects this year, showing growth in project size, complexity and revenues generated. Projects included proposing expansion strategies for three Queen's departments; preparing a growth and M&A strategy for a manufacturing company, a business plan for a new pharmacy, an expansion plan for a major not-for-profit organization; an e-commerce feasibility study for an on-campus retailer; completion of the third phase of a major project for the City of Brockville; and a follow-up engagement for the Kingston Association of Museums.

- The Centre evaluated the productivity and cost-effectiveness of its research focus on basic governance in 2014. In its seven-year history, the Centre's sponsored research has resulted in nine publications, including five in the influential Financial Times' list of 45 top-tier journals.
- The Voluntary Sector Reporting Award program entered its seventh successful year with an increase in participation to 140 organizations of all sizes.
- The Centre continued to provide support to student groups and faculty dealing with challenges that arose from the merger of the three professional accounting bodies and the move towards a new professional accounting examination.

Queen's Executive Decision Centre

Canada's first electronic group-decision support facility remains much in demand. Participants in meetings facilitated by Centre staff — either at Goodes Hall or using the Portable Decision Centre in their own locations — use the school's innovative facilitation software to contribute their expertise to the discussions. Clients include private- and public-sector organizations as well as Queen's faculty, staff and students.

Financial Report

The business school's funds from various sources increased 9% in the 2014-2015 fiscal year. The increase is attributable mainly to the growth in program offerings (e.g. new Master of Management Analytics; Master of Finance, Beijing; and Graduate Diploma in Business) and to a one-time, larger than anticipated enrolment of students in the Commerce program.

For the first time in the school's history, the total amount of funds from all sources exceeded the $100-million mark. This major milestone was only achieved thanks to donations from alumni and friends of the school.

Contributors Report

Queen's Initiative Campaign for the School of Business

Thanks to the generosity of alumni and friends and the dedication of Campaign Cabinet Volunteers and Class Giving leaders, the campaign for the school of business has now surpassed $59-million of its $65-million goal (as of July 30, 2015). This significant investment will allow the school of business to remain at the forefront of Canadian business education and ensure that students are given unparalleled opportunities to develop into successful leaders.

In 2012, we celebrated the completion of the new west wing of Goodes Hall and the strategic expansion of the school's programs. We are aiming to celebrate again, at the campaign's end on April 30, 2016, when we hope to have surpassed our original goal. The funds raised through this ambitious campaign will significantly impact the lives of our students by increasing support for scholarships and bursaries, implementing innovative teaching methods, attracting and retaining talented professors through highly sought-after named positions.

These are important goals, impossible to achieve without the continued support of our alumni and friends.

“As an entrepreneur, I’ve had a lot of experience in capitalizing on opportunities,” says Somen Mondal, MBA’06, co-founding CEO of Ideal Candidate and a winner of an Ontario Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year award in 2012.

Such an opportunity arose when the Dean’s Matching Fund was introduced in December 2014. The program matches gifts of $1K to $25K to the school of business and offers alumni who graduated in 2004 or later the opportunity to triple their donations. Somen decided to give the maximum, which grew his initial contribution to $75K. He subsequently gave an additional $75K and directed the total amount of $150K to the Commerce Society’s Queen’s Entrepreneurs’ Competition (QEC), which saw its prize money increase six-fold.

“By upping the stakes, QEC is bound to attract even more talented competitors from around the world,” says Somen. “I feel privileged to be able to provide the kind of seed funding that can really kick-start a new venture. I’m looking forward to having played a part in discovering The Next Big Thing!”

“Somen has been one of QEC’s strongest supporters,” says QEC Co-Chair Shayne Gelbard, Comm’16, “He’s been a long-time judge and panellist, unstintingly donating his time and sharing his expertise. We’re extremely grateful for his generosity that will help us take QEC to the next level.”

When Joshua Hamilton, MBA'16, learned that he had been awarded the D&R Sobey Atlantic MBA Scholarship, he was humbled at the prospect of becoming its inaugural recipient. Like another native of Cole Harbour, N.S. — hockey superstar Sidney Crosby — Joshua intends to make his mark in his chosen field, in his case, the business world. He's already made considerable progress, having been elected class president by his peers.

His ambitions were given a helping hand by Donald (BCom'57) and Rob (BAH'88) Sobey, who are continuing their tradition of supporting Atlantic Canadian students. The MBA scholarship fund of $4M builds on the D&R Sobey Atlantic Undergraduate Scholarship fund established by the Sobey's in 1999. Since its inception, the undergraduate fund has disbursed $3.7M to 89 students from Atlantic Canada.

In a thank-you letter to the Sobey's, Joshua wrote: "Growing up in Nova Scotia, I would never have dreamed that I would one day attend Queen's to pursue my MBA. You have allowed me to reach a stage in my academic career that was beyond my wildest dreams. I will honour your generosity by pursuing my goals with integrity and humility."

Benita Warmbold, BCom'80, is familiar with the challenges facing women who aspire to leadership positions in the world of finance. The Chair of the school's Advisory Board worked her way up through the ranks to become the Senior Managing Director and CFO of the Canada Pension Plan Investment Board. Helping women break into the often male-dominated world of finance is what motivated Benita and her husband Gerry Wood to establish the Warmbold Award for female students interested in a career in finance who are entering their third year in the Commerce program.

Benita and Gerry have also chosen to augment their Award with a bequest in their wills. By working with their lawyer, they were able to arrange their gift so that it would increase the fund to help inspire generations of aspiring female finance students to come.

Recognizing Annual Giving

The lists on pages 37 to 39 (Commerce) and 47 to 48 (post-graduate programs) recognize donors who contributed $1,000 or more, in cash gifts or pledge payments, to the school of business. In all cases, gifts being recognized were received between May 1, 2014 and April 30, 2015. Donors whose gifts were received after April 30, 2015 will be acknowledged in the 2015- 2016 Year in Review.

Diyang Lu, Comm'18, was just nine-years-old when Fred Troop (left), Gordon Konantz (right), and their classmates marked their 50th anniversary reunion by creating the Commerce 1954 Entrance Scholarship. Little did Diyang know that ten years on, he would receive such a scholarship.

The class's 60th anniversary gift brought the total raised to nearly $83,000 — an impressive amount that has funded scholarships for nine students since its inception.

“You lightened my financial burden,” said Diyang in a letter to his benefactors. “This allowed me to focus on my studies and passions, including participating in Accounting Association events and getting involved in case competitions.”

Diyang has already planned his next steps: after his Commerce graduation, he plans to obtain a Queen's Graduate Diploma in Accounting and work at a top accounting firm. Then, after an MBA, his ultimate goal is to launch a company that raises awareness of important causes.

A highlight of his first term was meeting members of the Commerce Class of '54 at Homecoming in October, 2014. It provided the perfect opportunity for Diyang to say a heart-felt thank-you in person.

Anne Gleeson, pictured with her brother George at his Commerce Convocation in 2013, is carrying on a family tradition in donating to the school of business. Her father John Gleeson, a Commerce'80 Class Giving Coordinator, inspired her annual gifts to the BCom'80 Award that funds scholarships for deserving students entering the Commerce program.

“Queen's has always been a part of our family tradition,” says Anne, whose mother Sarah, BA'80, and aunts Catherine Imrie, BA'93, Jane Marshall, BA'82, BEd'83, and Dr. Susan Gleeson, MSc'82, also attended Queen's, as did five cousins.

As a BCom'10 Class Giving Coordinator, Anne and her classmates are well on their way to raising their 5th anniversary gift, to be presented at the Homecoming brunch on Oct. 24, 2015. “The added incentive of having each gift matched 2:1 under the Dean's Matching Fund has really encouraged classmates to give back,” says Anne.

The lead-up to graduation from the EMBA Americas program (formerly the Cornell-Queen's EMBA) is a hectic time. Even so, classmates Spencer Glenn (above, second from left) and John Hui (pictured on page 42) took up the challenge and rallied their colleagues to contribute more than $40,000 to their graduating class gift. The 2015 class directed its gift to the EMBA Americas Fund, created by the CQ-EMBA Class of 2007. This fund has been used to support initiatives such as financing student travel to MBA competitions and student professional development. Next year, the funds will be used to bring speakers to an EMBA Americas conference.

“We wanted to leave a legacy to commemorate the outstanding experience we'd had in the program,” says Spencer. “We were recipients of the generosity of alumni before us, so it was incumbent on us to pay it forward to future students, demonstrate leadership and show our collective commitment to the institution that had invested so much in us. We also recognized the tremendous opportunity of doubling our contributions by taking advantage of the 2:1 match afforded to recent alumni through the Dean's Matching Fund program.”

Class Gifts

In this fiscal year, class giving resulted in $1,255,516 from 13 classes. Classes had an opportunity to present their gifts at Homecoming 2014.

1 The BCom'54 class marked their 60th anniversary reunion by presenting a $25,200 cheque to support the Commerce 1954 Entrance Scholarship, and by meeting this year's recipient, Diyang Lu, at the brunch (see his story on page 36).

2 The BCom'74 class raised $50,000 towards the Commerce 1974 Exchange Bursary, awarded to third-year Commerce students selected to participate in a formal Queen's University bi-lateral international exchange.

3 Thanks to the efforts of Class Giving Leaders Milton Hess (front row, centre) and Wayne Musselman (front row, far right), the Commerce 1964 class raised $64,499 toward their class gift. Both men have since passed away, but their legacy of funding faculty recruitment, student support, equipment and programs continues.

4 In commemoration of its 30th anniversary reunion, the BCom'84s funded the establishment of the Commerce 1984 Bursary and supported the Dean's Innovation Fund. Andrew Clarke (left) and Susan Rooks presented their class gift to Dean David Saunders.

5 Andrea Matthew Williams (centre) and Andrea McReynolds perform the honours in presenting the BCom'94 class gift, which supports a bursary awarded to first-year Commerce students.

6 David Saunders with BCom'89 Class Giving Leaders Sandra Linsdell, Shannon Valliant, Paul Pancham, Derek Burleton and David Baird. Their class gift supports the Commerce 1989 Award for Commerce students entering first year.

7 Ted Goldthorpe (left), Adrienne Goldthorpe and Andrew Brewster present to David Saunders their class gift in support of the Commerce'99 Entrance Award, allocated to first-year Commerce students based on financial need, academic achievement and extra-curricular involvement.

8 Hayley Becker (center) and Sarah Wickins present to David Saunders the BCom'04 class gift that supports third-year Commerce students participating in an international study opportunity.

9 David McConomy, MBA'69, with BCom'09 alumni at the Homecoming brunch, where he presented the MBA'69 Class gift totaling $50,000 to support MBA student activities inside and outside the classroom.

10 To commemorate their 40th anniversary reunion, the MBA Class of 1974 worked together to raise $52,750 in support of Goodes Hall.

11 George Thwaites, EMBA'94, led the charge to raise funds to establish the EMBA Legacy Fund in support of initiatives promoting leadership excellence and innovation in the program.

13 Lara Hamelin (left) and BCom'15 Class President Lindsay Pellett present their graduating class gift to David Saunders at a pre-Convocation reception in June. The class directed the proceeds towards a Queen's Commerce Bursary and the purchase of a mobile device charging station in Goodes Hall.

To initiate or contribute to a class fund, please contact Cicely Johnston at cicely.johnston@queensu.ca or 855.572.1536.

BCom'15, '16, '17 & '18 Students Take the Pledge

A campaign started by the BCom'08s continues to garner support from Commerce students across all years of the program. Hundreds have contributed an optional annual fee of $97.50 that will generate $1.2M over 10 years for the new wing of Goodes Hall that opened in 2012.

When Ted Neave was inducted into the school's Faculty Hall of Fame in 2009, it was a well-deserved recognition of the impact his research and teaching has had on generations of his students. In 2014, Ted chose to benefit generations of students to come by establishing the Elizabeth Neave Fellowship in memory of his late wife, Elizabeth Lees Neave.

Ted joined the school in 1971, and was the Bank of Montreal Professor of Business and Finance until 2004 when he retired as Professor Emeritus. He continues to be a prolific researcher, with publications in finance having ranged from purely theoretical works to empirical articles and papers designed for lay readers.

The fellowship he established is awarded on the basis of academic excellence to funding-eligible Master of Science in Management students. Ted reflects, "Throughout her life, Elizabeth strongly believed in the potential of innovative research to foster social progress. It's my hope that this fellowship will assist graduate students in pursuing their own forms of innovative research."

J. W. McConnell Family Foundation Associate Program Director Chad Lubelsky with Prof. Tina Dacin, Director of the school's Centre for Social Impact and Queen's Principal Daniel Woolf at the RECODE program's launch.

In March, the school's Centre for Social Impact launched a new multidisciplinary initiative aimed at creating, invoking and inspiring social change.

Funded by $100,000 from the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation and matching private donations, Queen's RECODE supports the development of a social innovation zone on campus as part of a national program championed by the McConnell Foundation. Its objective is nothing less than to 'recode' our culture's operating systems in order to achieve a more just, sustainable and beautiful world.
